What is the School Performance Framework?

Just as teachers monitor student progress in their classrooms, DPS relies on regular progress monitoring to determine how well schools are performing and how to help them reach their potential. The School Performance Framework (SPF) is one tool DPS uses to do this.

The SPF is like a report card for your school, rating how well the school supports student growth and achievement and how well it serves students and families. It helps a school focus on its strengths and areas where improvement is needed.
